Subject: Update on Advance Faculty Information System

Advance Faculty Information System

Dear Colleagues:

I am writing to provide an update on “Advance”, the on-line faculty advancement project. Beginning this week, departmental academic personnel analysts will begin using Advance to send out reference requests for the 2011 advancement process. If you are serving as an internal referee for a faculty member eligible for advancement effective July 2011, you will be receiving an email request generated by the Advance system that will allow you to enter your reference directly into the Advance system. Likewise, if you are eligible for advancement July 2011, your referees will receive their requests electronically from the system. With this new feature, we hope to increase the efficiency of the reference collection process and provide an easier way to for referees to provide their input.

For more detailed information on the Advance project, I invite you to review the Advance website. The project continues to include the involvement and input of many faculty members. I would welcome your feedback and comments at AdvanceProject@ucsf.edu.
